Miners' Wages in the West.

The manager from one of the largest mining and smelting companies in B.C. who has given some attention to the labor problem in B.C., recently visited the States, and he says:

"I learned while in California the prices paid in the States for miners and hours of labor. In Leadville, with an altitude of 10,000 feet, the wages are from $2.50 to $3 for 10 hours. They pay $3 in the mines, where it is very wet. In California miners are paid $2.50 for 10 hours' work. In Nevada miners are paid $3 for 10 hours' work. In Colorado miners are paid $2.50 to $3 for 10 hours' work. In Utah, where they have the eight-hour law, miners are paid $2.50 for eight hours' work. They have had experience with this eight hour law in Utah, and it is condemned by both the miners and the mine owners. They claim down there that eight hours' work is too little time to keep the men occupied, and the consequence is they drift around the saloons the balance of the shift, and, of course, get into the habit of drinking more than is useful or good for them. At the same time I was informed that this eight hour law drove away the more ambitious men, who wanted to work 10 hours, to places where they could get a contract, or get $3 per day of 10 hours; that on the whole it has shown itself to be a great mistake to legislate for eight hours' work, as it causes the men to sit three or four hours every day, which means loafing in the saloons, or in the men get drinking and spending all their money."

monies coming in for stock, that were sufficiently capitalized, or where the stock was firmly held at good figures, are now in the dividend class,
or rapidly approaching that stage.

The successes in Ontario are the Sultan, which was sold in London last year for $1,375,000; the Mikado, which last year produced $100,500 worth of gold, of which extended mention will be found in its annual report published last week in the THE MINER. The Olive is another mine that is a regular producer, and the same may be said of the Golden Star, which, while a good mine, has been footloose from the start, first by the promoters and now by the stock brokers who persist in making it a football from day to day on the stock boards.

There are a number of smaller propositions at work throughout these Ontario gold fields, some of them very meritorious, and which in any other gold mining region would be considered bonanzas, but the big permanent mines of the future here are the low grade propositions, with immense ore deposits, that can be easily and cheaply worked on a large scale. Among such are the Sultan mine, the Olive, the Hammond Reef, the Glass Reef, the Triggs, the Randolph, the Gold Panner, the Combine, the Mikado Peninsula, the Western field, the Crown Point, and the tremendously big ore body belonging to the Homestake of Ontario gold mines, now under active development, and which promise to eclipse
all other propositions known to fame, such as the Homestake of Dakota, and the Alaska-Treadwell mines, which heretofore have borne the palm for bigness and productiveness in the gold mining world.

It is still possible to secure stock in most of the companies above-named at figures nearly down to ground-floor basis, and this has been the case in which the judicious investments mentioned were purchased. Some of them are now advertising in THE MINER, while others have done so in the past.
The cautious public will look up the claims of such mines, will then invest,
and will subsequently reap rich rewards. The over-cautious, or the heads who can never see an opportunity when success comes to others will sneer at the luck of those who risk their money, but it much

Excursion to the Goldfields.

The excursion from Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Paul and other points will arrive at Rat-Portage Thursday next. There will be a number of representative men from these cities, and there is no doubt but this excursion will tend to diffuse knowledge of the mining possibilities of western Ontario
among the best class of American capitalists, and bring to their attention a new field for legitimate investment.
Its results will be far-reaching, for each of these men will be a means of directing the attention of their immediate friends in this direction. In the party will also be a number of representatives of the leading papers of the different cities, and the articles they publish on the district will have the advantage of an immense circulation. Very few American publications have ever contained any tidies of this district, from the fact that no effort has ever been put forth to supply them with reliable information.

Gold Hills Exploration Co.

T. K. Barnard, M.E., of Toronto, was in town this week and has now gone to inspect some properties of the Gold Hills Exploration Co., in the Parigmig bay district. If he finds the veins to be as good as assays would lead him to believe the property will begin opening up the property at once. The Gold Hills Co. has a number of other locations in different parts of this district, some of which are considered very good, and will probably soon start work opening up some of them.

The Little Bobs.

Development on the location owned by the Little Bobs Mining Co. continues to uncover exceedingly rich ore.
Returns from four 100 lb. samples put through the amalgamation test this week resulted as follows: Actual gold obtained $2.53, $1.15, $0.10, and $0.05, or values per ton of $80,000, $23, $182,
and $10. These are wonderful results and show the splendid worth of the property.

The whole of the 900 lbs. of ore brought in could not be put through this week, owing to a large number of tests being made on the Wendigo ore for Mr. Hunter and his associates, as the last payment on the purchase price on that property has to be made on the results of the tests being made.

The mine is not trying any record breaking runs, but is simply endeavoring to keep to an average which can be relied upon. The sorting plant was only operated for a month, but now that the immense crusher, which is capable of supplying a 50 stamp mill, has been installed, it will be put in operation again, so it is likely that next month's output will be somewhat increased.

First Class Mining Properties and Stocks of Reputable Co's

in Ontario on commission.

Owners of mines or claims placing same in our hands, must provide Maps, Engineers' reports, and full information together with a sufficient option to time to effect a sale.

Persons seeking first class investments, either in mining properties, or stocks, should go to their advantage to call on or address this firm, either at Rat Portage, Ontario, or 10 Manhattan Building, St. Paul, Minn.

dividends each month. For instance $100 invested in that stock at 50 cents, today is worth $150.00, not to mention the dividends paid for years. It was not luck that gave this magnificent return on a small investment, but just ordinary common sense, backed up by a little courage to make the investment.

The history of mining gives ample evidence of success coming from judicious and careful investments. In fact, while there are failures in mining as there are in all business ventures, yet where good judgment is used and the same care and caution exercised as is the case usually in other ventures, the percentage of loss is less than in any other line of business. The fact of the matter is that mining today is reduced almost to a science. Given the property, sufficient capital to carry it on to a successful issue, there is no such thing as failure, while the gains to be secured are not at all approachable by any other pursuit. Statistics confirming this matter may be multiplied. The instance of Mrs. Chase, of Bangor, Maine, who against the advice of her friends, who predicted loss, invested her small saving of $100 in the United Verde copper mine of Arizona. That same investment is now paying her original investment now, of $100.00 per month with the mine only in its infancy, and it is claimed she has refused $34,000 for her holdings. Another instance is that of a Spokane tailor, who took 5,000 shares of the Le Roi mine in British Columbia at 5 cents a share, and after keeping the stock sold it on the reorganization of the company, for $50,000 in cash, and the same stock on the new basis of capitalization today in the London market is worth $300,000. The tailor, said to be only the ninth part of a man, took chances and reaped a harvest, while the St. Paul business man who wrote his cheque for $5,000 to pay for one fifth of the same Le Roi mine, and backed out because so advised by his friends, two years later could have had a cool one million dollars in cash for his investment, had he used his own judgment instead of that of his friends of the sort who can see no good come out of Nazareth.

THE MINER cites these cases to show that the business of mining does pay, when one goes about in the right way. But at the same time, we do not wish to be understood as commanding all mining ventures, for we do not, any more than we would say that any business enterprise would meet with success. There are mining propositions right in Ontario, good ones, that have been wrecked because of poor management. The capitalization was too low, or the stock frittered away at too low a price, so that the funds necessary for putting the mine on a paying basis, were dissipated before the object sought was attained. Other properties, however, there are, that by careful management and a wise husbanding of the men the fortunes investments mentioned were purchased. Some of them are now advertising in THE MINER, while others have done so in the past. The courageous public will look up the claims of such mines, will then invest, and will subsequently reap rich rewards. The overcautious, or the heedless who can never see an opportunity, when success comes to others will sneer at the luck of those who took the only path to riches, which is to invest their money, be it much or little in mining or other investments, while prices are low and thereby secure the advance sure to come, if the same has merit, such as is the case in all the properties mentioned in this article.

THE MINER does not mean to insinuate here that there are no other meritorious properties in these gold fields, for there are plenty of them, most of which have been mentioned frequently in these columns, and which are now omitted because they do not come under the scope of large low grade propositions, such as are particularly dealt with in this article.

Stamps for the Wendigo.

Matt Hunter manager of the Wendigo mine, left this week for the east where he goes to consult the directors of the company. It is their desire to place a mill on the property, and it is likely that it will be installed at once. The mine has two shafts 100 feet deep which are now being connected on the lower level. The showing is thought to be so good that it is possible the mill will be of thirty-stamps. The mine is well equipped with machinery and a 40 foot square boarding house capable of accomodating 60 men has been erected and the property generally put into excellent shape for rushing work.

E. B. Kendall is taking out teams and barges to bring in about 200 tons of ore from the Wendigo, which will be put through the Kewatin Reduction Works. The result of this test will be watched with interest.

Mining Land Transfers.

We are informed by Registrar, Ap. John that many transfers of title are being made at his office in mining lands of this district which is a sure indication that things are moving. It is quite probable that this will result in more development as the change of ownership is an indirect evidence of capital sufficient to carry on the work.

W.C.T.U. Social.

Last night the W.C.T.U. met at the house of Mr. Kelly on Fifth street for a social evening. Quite a large number were present. An interesting program was provided, consisting of songs, recitations, instrumental music and a review of the work done by the W.C.T.U. Mrs. Clark presided at the meeting. After the social refreshments were served.

or values per ton of $50.00, $22, $182 and $16. These are wonderful results and show the splendid worth of the property.

The whole of the 100 lbs. of ore brought in could not be put through this week, owing to a large number of tests being made on that Wendigo ore for Mr. Hunter and his associates as the last payment on the purchase price on that property has to be made on the results of the tests being made.

The former amalgamation tests of 270 pounds from the little Babe gave an average value of $270 per ton for 18 inches of vein. The four tests mentioned above gave an average of $104.15 for three foot wide of ore.

FOSTER ON CANADA

The Eloquent Conclusion of His Great Budget Speech.

UNITY OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS BREATHING OF LOYALTY AND UNITY.

The following is the conclusion of Hon. Geo. E. Foster's speech in the budget debate, delivered on March 27. Although this part of the speech does not deal with the budget at all it is not the less, but better worth reading:

"Sir, more than all I think I can congratulate our country, Canada, on the position which she holds today, new and strong and hopeful, with her face towards the rising sun, and her bosom filled with high thoughts and lofty ambitions. Sir, this Canada of ours was not born in a day, she was not brought forth in a single hour. This Canada of ours, like all other countries that have become great, has had her long period of breeding and reparation, as I said, after long, long difficulties. But as sure as a man grows out into the period of a splendid growth and splendid development which shall continue on the part of the American continent for many and many a long century to come.

"What are the great forces that have played their part in building up this new nation of the north? First, there was political and geographical unity. There were no natural difficulties which hampered the people of this country, and which prevented them from achieving the political and geographical unity of the country. Today that is accomplished. Natural barriers have been overcome, difficulties between the provinces in inter-provincial communication have been vanquished, and today that is not simply written on paper, but it is an entity strong and vigorous, which has come to remain and upon which a splendid development in the future shall be built. But, sir, there is a unity, if not a bleeding, of heart and of creed in this country. There may never come a time when the races and creeds of this land will blend completely together, but the great Imperial power presided over by the matchless queen to whom we all give our homage and unswerving loyalty.

"One who reads the history of this Canada, four centuries ago, so far as governmental lines were concerned, recalls that what then forms the Dominion of Canada was a great void, without form, without shape, which was beautiful and strong in its vigor, which gradually came to be sought by the adventurers of empire, who landing here and there in scattered places by their enterprises, gradually spread from section to section, to our great lakes, westward, to our prairies and across the mountains, until the spirit of European civilization came to be dominant and struck in that part of this North American continent which now forms the Dominion of Canada. One and a half century ago the people of this country were settling the sovereignty of its country along the borders to the south, down to the ports and cities of the Atlantic, up along the line of the St. Lawrence, and ultimately to the lakes of Abenah, where Monte Carlo Wolfe sanctified the valor of his great people. Half a century ago he set up, in this country, the post office of responsible government upon the remains of the colonial rule. Moral and spiritual institutions were being laid up in the different provinces, schools and colleges were being formed and the means of these great productive industries, which, today, dot this country, were spread to the other, from Cape Breton to the Pacific coast, were being established. Thirty years ago the people of this country joined hands from sea to sea, rearing the whole of its iron superstructure of the Dominion of Canada, beneath whose broad roof all the peoples of all the provinces, germed into a common home under a new system. Today we are here, five million of sturdy, enterprising, energetic people, with our lines of railway 20,000 miles in extent, running through every portion of the country, taking in as it were the prairies, overstepping the mountains, and giving us a great highway from ocean to ocean, with our fingers, holding the selves to the act of the tremendous civilization, without bread to eat which yield the principal resources income to the people, and the men who work them, who are, in truth, are developing mind, and the art of wealth, unexampled, and the gift of any up to the present time, of all the resources we have, combining all the past history of the country, and with our knowledge of the present we look to the future with hope, ambition and pride. Now, sir, in these last years, we have evaded and heard, as it were, the calling in the night, the first ring of the anthem which British voices now sing, around the world, and the anthem

President McKinley and Wine.

The N. Y. World says: At the Vermont Methodist Episcopal Conference held at Bellows Falls, Vt., the report of the committee on temperance elicited considerable discussion over the question whether President McKinley was in the habit of drinking wine at banquets.

Referring to this report Bishop McMillen made the following statement: "Last November there was a meeting

dent McKinley as to whether he drank

A NATURAL ERROR.

But This Time It Was Made by the Wrong Man.

It had been occupying a certain room in this house for nearly a year, said a drummer who lives in one of the hotels, "but the other day they gave me the apartment adjoining, which is a trifle larger. Last night I came in rather late and very much refreshed and when I opened the door was startled to find a strange man with his feet on the bureau, reading a paper. It flashed across my mind instantly that I had gone to my old room by force of habit, and I offered my apologies as gracefully as I could."

"I occupied this room for a long time," I said, and it comes natural to me to walk right in. I was very sorry I disturbed you."

"That should certainly have been satisfactory, but the fellow jumped up with face as black as thunder."

"Hold on a bit," he said. "It strikes me that's a pretty thin excuse."

"What do you mean, sir?" said I,
getting mad myself.

"I don't believe you're the reply, stepping between the door. "I've heard of these things before, and I think I'll say nothing more."

"I am going to be taken for a lunatic in my own hotel, and I can't stand it."

"I suppose it was," I cried and was about to pass on, but he jumped up and rang the bell. Then he squared me off a la Jeffries.

"Come on," he said, cool as you please. "The police will be here in a moment, and you have no time to lose."

"I was just about to sail in when I happened to notice for the first time for my toilet articles on the bureau.
I glanced around, and there was all my luggage in the corner. By Jove! I was in my own room after all! It was the other fellow who had made the mistake."

"The situation was so absurd that I roared with laughter, and my late antagonist put down his hands and looked puzzled. I made a brief explanation, pointed to the number on the door, and he was the most abashed individual in 40 states."

"He really belonged across the hall

but left them standing and they were filled by the waiters."

"He always had, however, a semiagic glass from which he drank Apolloins water, but the wine always remained untouched."

Something noteworthy.

"What has he ever done to make the world remember him? Nothing—absolutely nothing. He has never"—

Talked About

Colonel Morrison, mining manager of the Trojans, was in town last week.

W. G. McLeod has returned from trips to Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. Schwartz, of the Lake of Woods, Kenora, has gone to Fort Frances to take up his duties on a business trip.

Mr. McLeary, Keweenaw has loaned his new boat. "Sige" was christened at Gravenhurst.

Dr. Spittle has returned from a business trip and other eastern points.

Mr. Taylor, of the firm of Taylor & Co., merchants, left Wednesday night on the Kenora for Minehead. He took a large supply of goods with him.

Miss A. Johnson left Saturday night for a couple of months vacation from home in Minnesota. She will assume her position as teacher in the school when her return.

Mr. and Mrs. Wynne arrived from Fort Frances.

R. P. Connell, Dominion Express messenger, was in town Tuesday.

County Sheriff C. H. Carpenter is leaving and Wahigoon summoning for the June sessions.

McLellan returned Wednesday night from his quarries at Tyndall.

A. Franklin by the Kenora Bay for Fort Frances.

McLellan arrived home from Lake Mina, and leaves with a party of spectators for the lake next week.

that the comedy called for, and none more so than Mr. Milne, under whose direction the parties taking part had rehearsed for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Dean as Chevrolet Bill had a difficult role, and he surprised everyone with his easy manner free from staginess. He had a difficult part, being on the stage almost continuously from the rise of the curtain. Mr. Carpenter, as Belyavinsky, had a splendid make-up and took the part assigned to him in a splendid manner. As the protector of Chevrolet Bill from matrimonial complications, he did good work, but eventually got entangled in the net himself. Miss G. twin, as Maggie, a Lowland lassie, was the star itself, and few could suggest any improvement. Mr. Walker, as Angus Macmillan, a peasant, won over with Maggie, presented the typical Lowland Scotch character with class and style. Mrs. Guiney's despatch in one of Bell in "Tighernan" was particularly well done, and added to the comedy feature of the play.

As Sympsonson, Mr. McLean did credit coming to him in his part, though there was some difficulty in his making it ring in his make-up. Miss Minnie Sympsonson, as Parker, did credit in her performance difficult as it was. Mrs. Ch. M. Farlane, a Lowland lassie, presented her part with a dash. Mr. VanKnoyten, as McGeatley, a bushy-haired suitor, was up to the mark.

The performance has been so well received on that, a decision has been made to repeat it in the India famine funds. The date is fixed for Thursday evening next, the who were unable to be present at the first performance will have another opportunity. Besides the above is a most worthy cause.

ROWING.

Great Interest Manifested in New Boats
Will be Here in Two Days.

The interest in rowing is still unbroken. The boys are working in earnest and are rapidly putting their boats into shape. The new oars have been put forth their energy in attempting to learn the art and are succeeding well. The boys now promised to develop into something pretty fast, but the coming up-coming incident of Sunday has forced one of the members to abandon rowing. The big four have got their make-up, and are now endeavoring to cultivate wind. The four oared boats are taken out occasionally, but the punts are very much over-worked at present.

Young—McRitchie.

Mr. T. C. Young and Miss Anna Belle McRitchie were united in holy matrimony Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Rochester. The bride's maid was the youngest sister of the bride, Miss Christie McRitchie, while the groom was assisted by Mr. David Guthrie. A few friends of the bride and groom were present. The happy couple left yesterday morning for their new home at Laggan, Alberta, where their many Rat Portage friends will wish them much happiness. They will visit for a few days with friends in Winnipeg and Bagot, Man.

Boys' Brigade.

The boys' brigade, given by the Boys' Brigade, was well founded and a very pleasing organization. The drill was fine and the boys got a credit upon their first appearance in Wood. Mr. R. C. Moore, of the Little Bells, was the drill master, being well known. W. M. Rose, a red and original boy, was a veritable encyclopedic knowledge of the world and Jones P. Moore, a boy in the 1st Johnson Company, were the principals. Miss Moon sang the voices of Soldiers of the Queen, and the Stephenites, the boys singing in unison. Miss Wood played the harp. Mr. Moon was chairman of the entertainment.

The boys' brigade, the day before, met at the hall, and the boys were entertained by the boys' club, so that they were able to take an outing at camp.

GOD'S MIRACLE OF LIGHT.

Miraculous mystery, God's miracle of light!
With scarce a stirring of the soul's surprise
Note we the sunbeam's arrow as it flies—
That pinkest shaft of pure, pell-mell white;
Broken in beauty through the rainbow's might;
Painted in gilding on the dark skies,
Setting yet higher with numbers, uncounted eyes;
The true heart, and read the message right,
Voiced mutely by that oracle sublime;
Grid of the world and glory of God's heaven,
By means of one the other we divine;
Light for its great analysis is driven!
Through the rain prisms. Tender, blessed sight!
Tears as interpreters to us are given.

THE CAT OR
THE COMET

Which Was Responsible?

What was that? A confused noise, as of shattering glass, a heavy fall and pistol shot, all at once.
Then, Aunt Samry rapped on the floor and called to me in excited tones through the keyhole:

"Alicia Dean! Alicia Dean! Get up and dress, quick! There are burglars upstairs!"

Fortunately I was already dressed, having sat up later than usual that night, waiting for my cousin Susan Ellen, to come back from the concert.

So I opened the door at once. As I did so Susan Ellen awoke from my arms, looking white and scared and almost ready to drop.

Aunt Samry appeared a moment later, her hair done up in a paper, armed with a lighted candle, a revolver and a pistol.

I got possession of the revolver immediately; not that I expected to do any more good with it than she could but I hoped to do less harm.

"Susan Ellen," said I in a sharp whisper, "you see anything of the burglars you name?"

But Susan Ellen seemed so paralyzed with fear that she was incapable of answering and simply clung to me, left arm like a frightened child, shivering from head to foot.

"Now, girls, follow me and don't speak a word!" commanded Aunt Samry, ascending the staircase, escorted by her lighted candle, revolver and the candle in the other.

We followed at a safe distance, and crept up to Susan Ellen on the way, up the pistol shot seemed to have come from Uncle Ralph's room, and I was sure the robbers had hurt him, before we hurried to our rescue in time.

She opened her mouth to answer, but her teeth chattering so, she could not.

We now saw that Aunt Samry had stepped in front of Uncle Ralph's door and was making hasty preparations.

By accident I had the key of my room in my hand, having unconsciousness of its importance, so I had no time to lose.

result was that Susan Ellen had not finished the windows.

"But it was so warm she wound up with another burst of tears, I did not think it would matter to leave out one sash, and I meant to clean it and put it in today."

I understood now what it was that Cousin Susan was so wonderfully affected by the death of a great uncle whom she had never seen till yesterday. She thought that he had not left out that window sash the murderer could not have gained entrance.

Aunt Samry employed the finest detective to clear up the mystery, but it remained a mystery still.

"Alicia," said my aunt about six months after the murder, "what is your theory on this subject?"

"I have none," I answered, "unless it was a case of suicide."

"Impossible!" she ejaculated.

"What sort of mind would be in when he had you good night?"

"Very bright and cheerful."

"How long was he left you before you retired?"

"I hadn't retired at all, but was putting up my hair in curlers when I heard the pistol shot and went after him."

"Then you heard the report of the shot shortly after he made you good night?"

"I did."

"And you say he was in a bright, cheerful frame of mind?"

"Yes, he was full of fun, laughing about being in the top story, saying he could get a better view of the concert, which was then attractively attended by every one, as he would be so much nearer to it."

At the end of this conversation I was as much in the dark as I had been at the beginning.

The one thing had been borne in upon my mind very forcibly of late, and that was the change in Susan Ellen. Even since that memorable night she had been a different girl and seemed only the shadow of her former self.

I attributed this state of things to a certain overzealous conscience which could persist in torturing a great blame to herself for having let out that gun shot. One plus to her character, however, was added to account for, and that was the sudden and unaccountable aversion she had taken to Aunt Samry's poor old cat.

Formerly I remember she had been the cat's great friend, for an evening at home and a good deal with it, but now she suddenly shivered if the animal I spoke of "brought against her."

But it was many years before I discovered the cause of this aversion. Aunt Samry was dead; it is true, but died and been buried long before them, to be buried under the roof of the old barn yard. Susan Ellen had noticed Mr. Wentworth, the young man who had been her escort to the concert the night of Uncle Ralph's death, the old bone had been broken up and it was drifting about the floor in an impossible way.

Susan Ellen had invited me to spend a week with her, and I had agreed to do so, but as I had no time to lose,

How Teachers May Prevent the Breakdown of the Nervous System which often Threatens.

The worry and work, the strain and anxiety of a teacher's life are such as to tell severely on the nervous system. Time and again teachers have had to give up good positions on account of run down health.

and shattered nerves. To such we confidently recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and in doing so we are supported by the testimony of Mrs. Reilly, Coborne Street, Chatham, Ont., who made the following statement:— "Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are, beyond question, the best remedy for nervousness and all exhausted conditions of the system I know of. My daughter, as a result of over study and close application to her duties as school teacher, became much run down and debilitated and was very nervous. Two months ago she began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They acted quickly and effectively in her case, making her strong and building up her entire system." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Anemia, Female Troubles, After Effects of Grippe, Debility, or any condition arising from Disordered Nerves, Weak Heart or Watery Blood. came from Uncle Ralph's room, and I was afraid the robbers had hurt him. He would have come to our rescue.

She paused her efforts to answer, till her teeth chattered so I stopped her.

We now saw that Aunt Sam had stepped in front of Uncle Ralph's door and was making ineffectual attempts to rouse him.

By accident I had the key of my room in my hand, having unconsciously taken it out after opening the door to Aunt Samira. This key I now applied to Uncle Ralph's lock. The door opened readily, and Aunt Samira stepped in, but sprang back instantly with a cry of horror, for Uncle Ralph lay on the floor under the window with a pistol beside him.

It did not take me many minutes to decide that he was dead with a bullet through his heart.

After becoming convinced of this fact all my nerve left me. While gazing vacantly about with dazed eyes, vaguely conscious that Aunt Samira was sobbing and that the cook, who had just come on the scene, was uttering horrid exclamations, I felt some one pull my sleeve. It was Susan Ellen.

"Take me away," she said. "It's chilly up here."

"It is chilly," I answered, drawing her arm through mine.

Then I noticed that a strong gale was sweeping through the trees, and that the upper sash of the window was open.

"Look out!" I said. "No wonder we are cold."

But she paid no attention.

After I had put Susan Ellen to bed I managed to get her up again with the assistance of a cold salt and a glass of wine I was taking up stairs.

I had already decided that it was evident that Uncle Ralph had been murdered by a burglar, but the first time I stood round the room seemed to dispel this theory, for on the dressing-table lay the watch and the purse of the murdered man. Nor, after I thought over it, could I find even a pin missing. In this we had a coroner's spectre, for this developed the fact that we knew that Ralph McLean had been killed at the hands of a party of persons unknown.

When the verdict had been rendered I had to pick the scene of the murder and make another investigation. Under the window I discovered some bits of broken glass. On examining the window itself I not only found that the upper sash was out, but that one pane of glass in the lower was missing. As I failed to find any conclusion from this evidence, I went back to Susan Ellen and asked if she supposed the murderer had carried out the upper window sash.

She burst out crying hysterically, and for a time I could not answer a word of her at all. But it transpired, at last, that when Aunt Samira had been apprised of Uncle Ralph's unexpected visit the day before she had sent Susan Ellen up stairs to get his room ready. Susan Ellen, thinking she had plenty of time before his arrival to clean the windows, took out the sashes—they were old-fashioned windows—in order to wash them.

But Uncle Ralph got in two hours ahead of time, having come on an earlier train than he was expected. He covered the cause of the aversion.

Aunt Samira was deeply grieved and died soon after, leaving with many tears under the eyes, to be in the back yard. Susan Ellen had married Mr. Wentworth, the young man who had been her escort to the concert the night of Uncle Ralph's death in the old home had been broken up, and I was drifting about the world in aimless way.

Susan Ellen had resolved to spend a week with her and had a husband far away on business, and ample opportunity for the exhibition of long confidences about old times.

One night as we sat by the fire the subject happened to turn on Aunt Samira's old yellow cat. I asked her why it was that she took such a sudden and unconscious aversion to that poor animal.

"It is something I have often wanted to tell you," she answered, "but somehow always seem to do so. At first I was afraid, and afterward I just kept putting it off, because I knew I ought to have told that first. You remember the night Uncle Ralph was killed?"

"I certainly do."

"Well, that evening I went to a concert with Mr. Wentworth. We got home about 10 o'clock, and I was talking at the front gate about the comet. I felt guilty standing at the gate, for Aunt Samira often told me not to do so, and, in particular, I gazed toward the house, expecting to see her, poking her head out of the window, looking at me. Instead, two curious objects in Uncle Ralph's window caught my eye.

"You remember it was still a bright moonlight that night, and I could see very distinctly, You remember the comet, the girl he loved a Gladstone bag stuffed with bonds."

"When you refused me because I was poor," he said, "you little knew what I was capable of."

The first question on her lips after she had properly thrown herself in his arms was to inquire how he got it.

"For the last three weeks," he said, "I have been head waiter in a restaurant."

Beggar Woman—This cough bothers me so.

Pianist—Bothers you? It bothers me because you cough an octave too high.—Flegende Blatter.

A Sudden Affluence.

"I have returned."

As he spoke, a handsome and bronzed stranger brandished in the face of the girl he loved a Gladstone bag stuffed with bonds.

"When you refused me because I was poor," he said, "you little knew what I was capable of."

The first question on her lips after she had properly thrown herself in his arms was to inquire how he got it.

"For the last three weeks," he said, "I have been head waiter in a restaurant."

Surgical Operations as a Cure for Piles...

Are Painful, Expensive and Dangerous
—The Only Certain Cure is Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Besides the many misery produced by the itching and burning of piles, this horrid disease is the more dreaded because a surgical operation is commonly considered the only effective cure.

Fortunately to this is a mistaken idea, for physicians have learned from Dr. Chase's Ointment instead of applying a knife, not only because it is less expensive, less risky, but also because it is a more effective cure.

It frequently happens that after people have endured the torture of piles for years and submitted to operations, that they are finally cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, the only guaranteed cure.

Among persons operated on for piles and afterwards cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment we would mention Rev. J. A. McLean, of Arkona, Ont., H. H. Sutherland, Truro, N.S., and D. Thornton, Calgary, N.W.T.

Dr. Chase's Ointment truly works wonders for it positively cures the worst cases of blind, itching, bleeding and protruding piles and allitching skin diseases. 6oz. a box at 10 cents, or EDMOND, BATES & CO., Toronto.

For bronchitis, croup, coughs, colds and asthma no remedy can be compared to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Tansy.

Messiah came at Rockwood and Pine Ridge agencies in 1890, attained notoriety by appearing among the excited "Shoos" and announcing himself their Messiah, has been deluged in satire.

Governor Pardee of Maine, who owns timber lands in the North Woods, was asked by a Boston Convene man the other day if he thought the pulp business was destroying the Maine forests and polluting atmosphere. "Not," was his answer to you. "Not let them cut all they want."

A Curious Battle.

An interesting spectacle was witnessed the other day on the banks of the river Soar, near Hathern, by a gentleman resident in the district. Being attracted by a peculiar cry, he turned aside and came upon a young otter and a huge eel engaged in a deadly struggle. The otter had evidently caught the eel, which had retaliated by winding itself tightly round the former's neck. The fight lasted several minutes the otter eventually freeing itself and making off with a part of the eel which it had bitten in two.—London Telegraph.
